

Welcome!

As a former Chemistry professor, I know the importance of having an abundance of accurate research materials at your fingertips.

This Student Center is intended to be a resource for both teachers and students. Thank you for taking the time to visit and learn more about the federal government and issues that impact us all as citizens of this great nation. I hope you find the reading materials I have provided here helpful.

House.gov

Here you will find a wealth of information about the House and Congress. Among the new and / or improved features are: easy-to-use tools for finding your representative, an expanded public disclosure section, and an interactive calendar of current and archived House schedules, floor proceedings, votes, bills, and reports.

The Congressional Budget Office (CBO) website features a blue header with the CBO logo and navigation links. The main content area includes a large banner for "ANALYTICAL PERSPECTIVES" and "BUDGET PROPOSALS FOR FISCAL YEAR 2012". Below this, there are sections for "RECENT PUBLICATIONS" and "HIGHLIGHTED ISSUES".

ANALYTICAL PERSPECTIVES is a series of reports that Congress uses to help make budgetary decisions, and it is a key part of the budget process.

The THOMAS website, part of the Library of Congress, has a blue header with the THOMAS logo. The main content area includes a navigation menu on the left, a central search area, and a right sidebar with "Current Activity" and "Weekly Top Five" sections.

THOMAS is a free online database of federal legislation, and it is a key resource for researchers and the public.

The GPO (Government Printing Office) website has a blue header with the GPO logo. The main content area includes a navigation menu on the left, a central search area, and a right sidebar with "CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS" and "FEDERAL REGISTER" sections.

CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS provides free online access to official Federal Government regulations, and it is a key resource for researchers and the public.

The National Archives website has a blue header with the National Archives logo. The main content area includes a navigation menu on the left, a central search area, and a right sidebar with "Research Our Records" and "Veterans' Services" sections.

National Archives is a free online database of federal records, and it is a key resource for researchers and the public.

The Library of Congress website has a blue header with the Library of Congress logo. The main content area includes a navigation menu on the left, a central search area, and a right sidebar with "About the Library" and "Collection Highlights" sections.

Library of Congress is the largest library in the world, and it is a key resource for researchers and the public.

The Supreme Court website has a blue header with the Supreme Court logo. The main content area includes a navigation menu on the left, a central search area, and a right sidebar with "Supreme Court Documents" and "Supreme Court Information" sections.

Supreme Court is the highest court in the United States, and it is a key resource for researchers and the public.

USA.gov The leading source of information on official services portals USA.gov also serves as the publicist